

The PRS Database: what landlords need to do

A plain guide to the government's new "Register your rental property" service in England. October 2026.

In one paragraph. Every private landlord in England will have to register themselves and each property they let on a new national database. Registration opens region by region from 15 December 2026, starting in the West Midlands. Once your region opens you have three months. There is an annual fee per property, and the details you give must be kept up to date.

1. When does it apply to me?

Your deadline depends on where the property is, not where you live.

Region	Opens	Register by
West Midlands	15 Dec 2026	14 Mar 2027
East of England	15 Jan 2027	14 Apr 2027
East Midlands	15 Feb 2027	14 May 2027
South East	15 Mar 2027	14 Jun 2027
Yorkshire and Humber	15 Apr 2027	14 Jul 2027
North West	15 May 2027	14 Aug 2027
North East	15 Jun 2027	14 Sep 2027
London	15 Jul 2027	14 Oct 2027
South West	15 Aug 2027	14 Nov 2027

4. What you will be asked for

About you

- Name, date of birth, home address, telephone and email.
- If the landlord is a company or other organisation: its name, legal form, address, a nominated contact, and its Companies House number if it has one.

About each property

- Address, type of dwelling, ownership type, number of bedrooms.
- Whether it is currently let; number of occupants and households.
- Whether it needs an HMO, additional or selective licence, and the licence number.
- Name and email of the freeholder, any superior landlord and any property manager.

2. What will it cost?

Government guidance gives an annual fee of £65 per property, renewed each year, adjusted pro rata during the rollout so that those who sign up first do not pay more.

3. Who has to register?

The landlord. Government guidance says landlords are responsible for starting and ending the registration process, and may agree that a letting agent or property manager provides certain information on their behalf. The landlord remains responsible for the information.

If an agent manages your property, ask what information they can supply on your behalf.

You will need a GOV.UK One Login to use the service.

Safety and energy documents

- Gas safety record (if there is a gas supply) and its issue date.
- Electrical Installation Condition Report (or Electrical Installation Certificate) and its expiry date.
- The most recent Energy Performance Certificate, or details of a registered exemption.

About the tenancy

- Rent and how often it is paid; whether bills are included and which.
- Whether let furnished, part furnished or unfurnished.

5. Keeping your entry up to date

Registering is not a one-off. Under the draft regulations:

- All required property information must be supplied within 28 days of the entry being made.
- If any information or document becomes out of date, the entry must be updated within 28 days. In practice that means each new gas safety record, a new EICR or EPC, a rent change or a change in the number of occupants.
- Entries are renewed every 12 months.

6. What happens if I do not register?

Government guidance says that if you do not register your properties you risk being fined, and that after each regional deadline councils in that region will be able to begin enforcement. The Renters' Rights Act 2025 provides for civil penalties; those provisions are not yet in force.

7. What to do now

1. Find your date. Look up each property's region in the table overleaf.
2. Check your certificates. Is the gas safety record in date? When does the EICR expire? Is there a valid EPC at E or above, or a registered exemption?
3. Check your licences. Does the property need an HMO, additional or selective licence, and do you have the licence number to hand?
4. Gather the details. Use the property information sheet that comes with this guide: one row per property, with every item the database will ask for and a count of what is still missing.
5. Set up GOV.UK One Login if you do not already have one.
6. Put a 28-day reminder in your routine. Each time a certificate is renewed or the rent changes, update the database.

These rules are not final. The Private Rented Sector Database Regulations 2026 were laid before Parliament in draft on 9 September 2026 and have not yet been made. Dates, fees and details may change. Check GOV.UK before you act.
